Artist's Biography

Bonnie Kelso spent her early years living in Florida, North Carolina, and Virginia. She received her BFA at the Rhode Island School of Design. After college, she pursued a career as an exhibit designer. During this span of twelve years she had the pleasure of working for many fine organizations such as the Smithsonian Institution, the Newseum, and National Geographic Society. She currently lives in Las Vegas where she is pursuing her career as a fine artist full time. Bonnie has traveled extensively abroad and is an avid outdoors enthusiast. She and her husband, Ron Graham, like to hike, canyoneer, and rock climb on their days off together.

Bonnie remains active with the developing arts community here by volunteering her time and talents to various projects. She is the webmaster and board member of Vegas Artists Guild who's motto is "Artists Helping Artists." She has given several presentations to guild members on various topics. She currently works out of her home studio, but has had a studio space in the Arts District and is pursuing a new space at the Fremont Street Neonopolis which is currently under renovation. Bonnie's work is currently showing at the World Market Center in Las Vegas.
